Rationale and Placement in Curriculum Historical Linguistics is an important linguistics subfield, complementing and making use of the core courses material. The scientific method used in historical linguistics is a technique applicable to any branch of linguistics and beyond. The historical development of language is important in and of itself, as well as for understanding the contemporary linguistic systems.

Course Objectives A student who successfully completes the course will be able to:

- list and describe basic concepts of historical linguistics;
- apply these concepts to data in order to draw well-reasoned conclusions about the history and relatedness of individual languages and language families;
- apply the scientific method to linguistic inquiry.

Grading Scheme Testing and Requirements

Your grade in this course will be based upon your performance on three 1-hour exams and an end-of-semester group project that you will present to the class and submit in written form to me (the project will be explained on the website no later than Week 4). Since I trust that you are all responsible, mature adults, homework may be assigned but will not be graded. It will be reviewed and discussed in class. Likewise, attendance will not be recorded, but you are strongly encouraged to attend regularly. While lecture notes will be posted on the course website, they are only outlines of the material discussed in class.

Hourly tests based on the lectures, handouts, and readings will be given at the scheduled time only. There will be no make- ups without an official written excuse or other documentation authorizing an emergency absence. Failure to take a test will be recorded as an automatic zero. Tests will be cumulative but emphasize the material presented after the previous hourly test. There will be no extra credit assignments.

All grades will be based on a 100 point scale. At the end of the semester, all four grades will be averaged together and divided by four (4). Hence, the three tests and the final project are of equal value, i.e. 25% of your grade. Your final averaged number grade will correspond to the following letter grade:

Points Letter Grade 100 - 93 A 92 - 90 A -89 - 87 B + 86 - 83 B 82 - 80 B-79 - 77 C+ 76 - 73 C 72 - 70 C-69 - 67 D+ 66 - 63 D 62 - 60 D-59 & Below E
