Course Description Designed to advance students’ ability to write in specific genres or to develop their understanding of special topics related to the field. Specific sections will be tailored to the expertise of the faculty members teaching the course.

Prerequisites ENC 1101 or ENC 1102
Co-requisites N/A

Rationale and Placement in Curriculum Typical of special topics courses, ENC 3930 would cover areas of rhetoric and writing that may only be appropriate as one-time offerings, tailored to the research of a particular faculty member or focusing on a current event. No such course currently exists at the intermediate level.

Course Objectives • Analyze influential research, theories, or philosophies related to the special topic.
• Write with facility in the genre specified by the special topic.
• Make well-reasoned critiques of examples of the genre specified by the special topic.
• Demonstrate an understanding of the critical linguistic and rhetorical components of the event in focus or special topic.
Course Textbook(s) and/or Other Assigned Reading As an example, in a course on the special topic of political rhetoric, the required reading would be as follows:

Additional theoretical, academic, and popular readings will be made available online via e-learning.

Links and Policies Academic Honesty

As a University of Florida student, your performance is governed by the UF Student Honor Code (https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/advising/info/student-honor-code.aspx). The Honor Code requires Florida students to neither give nor receive unauthorized aid in completing all assignments. Violations include cheating, plagiarism, bribery, and misrepresentation, all defined in detail at the above site.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is a serious violation of the Student Honor Code. The Honor Code prohibits plagiarism and defines it as follows:

Plagiarism. A Student must not represent as the Student's own work all or any portion of the work of another. Plagiarism includes but is not limited to:
1. Stealing, misquoting, insufficiently paraphrasing, or patch-writing.
2. Self-plagiarism, which is the reuse of the Student's own submitted work, or the simultaneous submission of the Student's own work, without the full and clear acknowledgment and permission of the Faculty to whom it is submitted.
3. Submitting materials from any source without proper attribution.
4. Submitting a document, assignment, or material that, in whole or in part, is identical or substantially identical to a document or assignment the Student did not author.

(University of Florida, Student Honor Code, 9 January 2019)

University of Florida students are responsible for reading, understanding, and abiding by the entire Student Honor Code.

Important Tip: You should never copy and paste something from the Internet without providing the exact location from which it came.

Respect for Peers and Instructors

Please keep in mind that students come from diverse cultural, economic, and ethnic backgrounds. Some of the texts we will discuss and write about deal with controversial topics and opinions. Diverse student backgrounds combined with provocative texts require that you demonstrate respect for ideas that may differ from your own. Disrespectful or disruptive behavior may result in exclusion from group activities and discussions, which would directly affect your grade.

Participation/Attendance
Participation is a crucial part of success in this class. During Weeks 1-4, students will be expected to work in small groups and participate in group discussions, peer reviews, and other in-class activities. Be prepared for quizzes or activities on the readings or classroom discussion. Activities and discussions cannot be made up.

Paper Maintenance Responsibilities

Students are responsible for maintaining copies of all work submitted in this course and retaining all returned, graded work. Should the need arise for a re-submission of papers, it is the student’s responsibility to have and to make available this material.

Mode of Submission

All papers will be submitted in MS Word .docx format. Final drafts should be polished and presented in a professional manner. All papers must be in 12-point Times New Roman font, double-spaced with 1-inch margins and pages numbered.

Course Evaluations

Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course based on 10 criteria. These evaluations are conducted online at https://evaluations.ufl.edu. Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results.

Writing Studio

The Writing Studio at the University of Florida is open to all UF students. Its mission is to “help University of Florida students and faculty meet their academic and professional goals by becoming better writers.” Visit http://writing.ufl.edu to sign up for an appointment.

Students with Disabilities

The University of Florida complies with the Americans with Disabilities Act. Students requesting accommodation should contact the Students with Disabilities Office, Peabody 202. That office will provide documentation to the student whom must then provide this documentation to the instructor when requesting accommodation.
