Response:
SPM 3012, currently called Sport and Society, is designed to acquaint students with the principles and applications of social issues within the sport industry. The course uses sociological research and critical thinking to investigate the links between many of the major issues facing sports organizations today. Specifically, it assesses the issues of the intersection of race and sports, gender and sports, the treatment and behavior of athletes in sport, as well as the major social issues facing youth, college and professional sports. Therefore, the faculty believe a name change to Social Issues in Sport speaks more directly to the learning objectives of the course, as well as the diversity and significance of topics covered.
