

Ashley Ghiaseddin, MD

I joined Gator Nation in 2015, after completing my fellowship at Duke University. I continue to be amazed with the warm 'family atmosphere' that is cultivated at UF. I am located in the College of Medicine, serving as Medical Director of Neuro-Oncology and maintaining a strong commitment to Education and Research. I have enjoyed my time on the University Multi-Cultural Mentoring Program and continue to have Undergraduates spend time in our clinic. After serving on the Medical Student Interviewing Committee, I was invited to join the Medical School Admissions Committee this upcoming Academic Year. My research has been translational in the UF Brain Tumor Immunotherapy Program where I am lucky enough to work with amazing Research faculty and students across different Colleges. I am currently in my second term on Faculty Senate which shows my commitment to serving our University. I was able to spend several years as chair of the Committees on Committees and served this past year as chair of the Budget Council. I believe that sustained growth and success for the University are dependent upon its Faculty and Students. For our Faculty, if elected as your chair, I would like to focus my efforts to improve Faculty retention by closely evaluating the benefits packages and P&T process. I would like to specifically work on improving the retirement and healthcare plans for our Faculty as well as the teaching evaluation faculty working with students and Postdocs. Thank you for considering me to serve you as chair. Go Gators!
