 - i. Angela Lindner requested members for their feedback on how the current policy is working since its implementation one year ago. Toby Shorey described current petitions process for students requesting to repeat a course if they have earned a C or better in their first attempt. Challenges related to the petitions process include timing concerns, workload on advisors, and The Registrars office, and requiring students in courses requiring greater than a C to petition to retake the course. A. Lindner proposed consideration of removing the petition requirements. Discussion on this topic will continue not only in ACUA but also in UCC and The Faculty Senate's APC.
