Faculty in the Department of Agricultural Education and Communication request that the Student Learning Outcomes to the current Academic Learning Compact for the department be revised to reflect changes that have taken place as a result of evaluating SLOs for the department's new Academic Assessment Plan. Because the department offers two unique specializations – where students do not take any common core courses – we are submitting two sets of SLOs for the Communication and Leadership Development (CLD) specialization and for the Agricultural Education (TCH) specialization. The changes to SLOs and their assessments are very extensive from the current versions. The revisions have been approved by AEC faculty and reviewed CALS administration.

Sincerely,
