The subcommittee met with Noelle Mecoli (Assistant Director of Analytic Services) and Dr. Marie Zeglen (Assistant Provost and Director of Institutional Planning and Research). The initial data points to be collected will be centered on demographics, majors, and individualized responses from the students. The data will still be anonymized, and in cases where students may be identified the data will be withheld. Further down the road more data will/may be available, such as specific course data. The student data in regards to General Education courses will only be available from courses taken within the University of Florida (i.e. no transfer data, etc). Now is the time to assess current questions for the SERU and to develop new ones for next year's survey; will be needed by early fall.
