Course Description Examines the major political, historical, and cultural aspects of the animosity between Greeks and Turks. Aims to dispel common myths and misconceptions.

Prerequisites Sophomore-standing or higher.

Co-requisites None

Rationale and Placement in Curriculum The course is the only class that examines the historical interactions between Greece and Turkey in the 20th century and the current tension that still exists between the countries. The course benefits from offering perspectives from both Greek and Turkish sources, aiming to dispel existing myths and stereotypes around these countries.

The course has previously been offered as EUS 3111, but due to faculty constraints at the time was dropped from the course catalog.

Course Objectives By the end of the course, students will:

Have a basic knowledge of politics and society in Greece and Turkey from the late 19th century to today.

Identify similarities and differences in Greek and Turkish cultures.

Discuss religion's role and political impact on Greece and Turkey, and its influence on Greek-Turkish relations.

Discuss efforts of modernization in Greece and Turkey, Turkish secularism, and the implications of political discontinuities in the two countries.
