Modify the Delivery Platform of an Undergraduate Program

This form should be used to offer an existing undergraduate major or minor through UF Online. Instructions for completing and submitting this form begin on the last page.

Major or Minor to Be Offered through UF Online

- | | | | |
|-------------------|--------------|-----------------|------|
| 1. Name | Anthropology | 2. Maj/Min Code | ANT |
| 3. Effective Term | Fall | Effective Year | 2015 |

4. Differences from Residential Program

The online degree program has fewer elective courses at the 3000 and 4000 level than the residential program.

5. Pedagogical Rationale/Justification

An online degree in anthropology will provide students with knowledge and training in an integrated social science that examines different dimensions of the human condition.

6. Impact on Existing Residential and UF Online Programs

We expect residential enrollment to remain unchanged. Anthropology will not compete with other online majors. Our upper division electives will be available for other CLAS majors.

- Prepare a document showing the proposed catalog copy.

Instructions

Please note: this form should be used to offer an existing undergraduate major or minor through UF Online.

Major or Minor to Be Offered through UF Online

1. Enter the name of the major or minor.
2. Enter the two or three letter code that identifies the major or minor in the student information system.
3. Enter the term (semester and year) at which the program should first be offered through UF Online.

Differences from Residential Program

4. Describe any differences in curriculum between the proposed online program and the existing residential program.

Pedagogical Rationale/Justification

5. Describe the rationale for offering the program through UF Online.

Impact on Existing Residential and UF Online Programs

6. Describe any potential impact on the existing residential program, other residential programs, and other UF Online programs, including changes in enrollment, increased or decreased need for general education or common prerequisite courses, or increased or decreased need for required or elective courses.

Anthropology

Anthropology is the study of people in their cultural context and the examination of all aspects of patterned social behavior. The discipline is worldwide in scope and encompasses all aspects of human biological and social life from earliest times to the present. It is a broad, holistic field that seeks to understand human adaptation to natural and social environments.

About This Major

- College: Liberal Arts and Sciences
- Degree: Bachelor of Arts
- Credits for Degree: 120
- Minors: Yes
- Academic Learning Compact: Anthropology
- Website: www.anthro.ufl.edu/undergrads.shtml

Overview

Anthropology includes four subfields: cultural anthropology, archaeology, biological anthropology and linguistics. Undergraduates may concentrate their studies in one of these four subfields or pursue a focus in an interdisciplinary track with another major or minor. A Bachelor of Arts is earned in anthropology rather than in any one subfield.

An undergraduate major in anthropology provides students with a broad-based liberal arts education and prepares students to work in an increasingly complex world. Anthropology majors learn about different groups of people, their prehistory and their biological and cultural diversity through disciplines that combine social science, natural science and the humanities. Many undergraduate anthropology majors go on to graduate school in the social sciences, while others use anthropology to prepare themselves for professional careers in other disciplines. In a world of increasing globalization and need for effective international relations and understanding, anthropology is a highly relevant liberal arts and sciences major for students interested in pursuing careers in education, government, health, business and law.
