The undergraduate program exposes students to three major areas: audiology, phonetics, and speech-language pathology. In addition, students complement their core courses with electives to round out their academic skills and interests.

Upon successful completion of the major, students receive the Bachelor of Health Science degree. ~~While~~ the majority of undergraduate majors students go on to pursue graduate or professional training in a health field (e.g., speech language pathology, audiology or other graduate degree program); ~~however,~~ some students ~~major~~ seek employment immediately after completing the BHS degree program, usually in organizations with ~~either~~ a health or education component ~~after completing the BHS degree program.~~

Certified clinicians (graduate degree required) often work ~~with a on a~~ team that may include ~~of~~ psychologists, teachers, families, ~~physical and occupational~~ therapists, physicians, nurses, dietitians and social workers to screen, diagnose and treat individuals ranging from infants to the elderly. Professionals typically work in schools, clinics, hospitals, other health organizations and/or private practice. Communication sciences and disorders professions offer a high degree of satisfaction to their practitioners by making a significant impact on people's lives. ~~These~~ Both speech-language pathology and audiology are growing professions with competitive salaries.
