SYLLABUS
MUH 3530: POPULAR AND TRADITIONAL MUSIC OF AFRICA
(Taught in Fall 2011 at the 2000 level; MWF 4\textsuperscript{rd} Period; Music Building 144)

Instructor: Larry Crook
Phone and email: 273-3171/lcrook@ufl.edu
Office and Hours: University Auditorium 301; MW—5\textsuperscript{th} period and by appointment

GENERAL DESCRIPTION
This course examines selected topics in African music history. Class periods include lectures, discussions, music listening, video viewing, live presentations, and interactive participatory sessions involving music making. The course begins by introducing broad issues involving the representation of African music, the role of music in African social life, and the ways in which African musical traditions have impacted and been impacted by colonialism and globalization. The course then focuses on selected musical traditions linked (geographically and historically) to Africa. Several themes run through the course: interconnections of traditional and popular forms of music, the effects of colonial and post-colonial enterprises, internationalization, mass media, and music’s role in shaping identity. We will spend time listening to the sounds created by a wide variety of African musicians and in discussing contemporary topics. Pre-requirements: MUH 2501 or permission by the instructor.

OBJECTIVES
- Increase students’ knowledge and enjoyment of African music
- Introduce students to diverse of African musical traditions
- Improve students’ ability to discuss and describe musical styles, structures, and concepts
- Enhance students’ knowledge of African musical history

REQUIREMENTS
Each student must
- attend class,
- complete required reading, listening, and viewing assignments,
- participate in class discussions,
- take three in-class exams,
- participate in discussion groups,
- participate in and present a group project
- be respectful of yourself, other students, and the instructor.

REQUIRED PURCHASE
- MUH 3530/Crook Course Packet (Target Printing 1412 West University Ave)

Many of the assigned readings for the class will come from this packet. Additional assigned readings will come from books and journal articles that are made available online through the ARES Course Reserves. Students are also encouraged to consult The New Grove II Dictionary of Music and Musicians, the Garland Encyclopedia of World Music, and Middle East Volumes), and Rough Guide to World Music for additional general information on specific African regions, countries, musical styles, and musicians as we cover them during the semester. These sources are available in the Music Library’s reference section. In addition, JSTOR and Oxford Music Online (including New Grove II listed above) can be accessed online through UF Music Library home Page (http://www.uflib.ufl.edu/music/) via your Gator Account.

LISTENING AND VIEWING MATERIALS IN THE MUSIC LIBRARY
Listening to music outside of class periods is also required for this class. For most topics we cover, you will be assigned selected listening examples that are available on the E-learning site for this class. Occasional viewing/listening examples from CDs and DVDs may also be made that are available in the Music Library. The Music Library has facilities for listening/viewing and is located on the second floor of the Music Building. Hours for the Music Library are Mon-Thurs 8 am – 8 pm; Fri 8 am – 5 pm, and Sun 1 – 8 pm (closed on Saturday).

EXAMS
You must bring two pencils (or pens) to class for each of the exams. Exams will include a combination of objective, short answer, listening identification, and essay portions. Make-ups for exams will only be given for excused absences (see below).

Preliminary Exam Schedule (subject to change)
Exam 1: September 14, 2011
Exam 2: October 21, 2011
Exam 3: November 30, 2011

COURSE GRADING
You will accumulate points in this course. The total number of points you accumulate during the semester will determine your final grade. Failure to attend class regularly will result in points being taken from the total you accumulate. Please see the class attendance policy below.

Exam 1......................................................... 100
Exam 2......................................................... 100
Exam 3......................................................... 100
Group Project.............................................. 100
TOTAL ....................................................... 400

Final Grades will be calculated as follows (no minuses are given in this class):

A  (368-400)  C  (288-311)
B+ (352-367)  D+ (272-287)
B  (332-351)  D  (248-271)
C+ (312-331)  E  (000-247)

Information on current UF grading policies and grade points may be found at https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/grades.aspx

CLASS ATTENDANCE POLICY
Regular class attendance is required of all students and attendance will be taken beginning the second week of class. Attendance is critical because much of the course material comes directly from class lectures, discussions, demonstrations, etc. Students will be responsible for all information presented and assigned in class. Students are required to enter class on time, sign the attendance sheet, and remain through the entire period. During the semester you are allowed three unexcused absences without point deduction; each additional unexcused absence will result in lowering your point total by three points. Any student missing class for any reason (excused or not) is responsible for getting notes and a copy of handouts from a fellow student, not from the instructor. Make-ups for exams are given only for excused absences. An excused absence is defined as 1) a medical issue accompanied by a signed statement from your doctor, 2) a serious family emergency with a signed statement from parent or guardian, 3) an official University of Florida activity accompanied by a signed statement from an appropriate faculty representative with a two-week prior notification, 4) a religious holiday observance with a two-week prior notification to instructor or Course TA, 5) military service or court-imposed legal obligations accompanied by written proof two weeks prior to the absence.

Requirements for class attendance and make-up exams, assignments, and other work are consistent with university policies that can be found at: https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx.

DISCUSSION GROUPS
Each student will be assigned to a Discussion Group (DG) within the class. During class periods, we will sometimes divide up into the discussion groups to discuss that day’s topic/reading. Each DG will be responsible for collectively discussing the assigned reading and for choosing a representative to report to the class.

GROUP PROJECT
Each student must participate in a group project dealing with African music, a component of which will be to give a presentation to the class during the final few classes of the semester. This project presentation may take several forms: a performance or demonstration, a scripted video and/or audio work (including podcast), a poster/powerpoint presentation, or other creative presentational formats. The project will include four graded components: 1) Initial Topic Exploration (20 points); 2) Detailed Formal Project Proposal identifying the topic to be explored and the presentational format to be used (20 points); 3) Project Presentation itself (30 points); 4) Written Project Narrative (30 points).

SCHOLASTIC DISHONESTY
Students enrolled in this class are expected Cheating on exams and plagiarizing (presenting someone else’s ideas, words, or products as one’s own without providing proper recognition of the original source) are serious matters. As a result of completing the registration form at the University of Florida, every student has signed the following statement: “I understand that the University of Florida expects its students to be honest in all their academic work. I agree to adhere to this commitment to academic honesty and understand that my failure to comply with this commitment may result in disciplinary action up to and including expulsion from the University.” The instructor of this course fully endorses this statement and will not tolerate academic dishonesty. Anyone caught cheating or plagiarizing is subject to an automatic E and further disciplinary action.

HINTS FOR STUDENTS

Attend classes regularly, ask questions, and take notes. Refer to the syllabus for general information and to the course calendar for assignments. Establish contact with other students in the class and study together. Create a class notebook (loose-leaf is best) to keep the syllabus, course schedule, and all handouts together with your notes from the lectures, reading, listening, and viewing assignments. This will help you organize information and study for tests more efficiently. Re-read your notes to make sure you understand them and underline important names and terms (If you take notes on one side of the page only you can later use the backside to define the terms and names you underline). When reading, listening, and viewing the assignments, take notes of the major points to help you remember the information covered. Jot down information from the liner notes or jacket cover of recordings where appropriate. Become familiar with the resources of the Music Library and use the listening facilities and other recordings not available in the library (there are forms available at the library desk).

INSTRUCTOR’S OFFICE HOURS

Open office hours for discussing assignments, clarifications on readings or lectures, looking at tests, or discussing other issues related to the class are on MW (5th period). If you can’t make any of those times please email or call Dr. Crook at 273-3171 to schedule an appointment.

CLASSROOM POLICIES

The class period begins promptly at 10:40 am and you are expected to have signed the attendance sheet and to be in your seat at that time. In the rare case that you are unavoidably late, please enter quietly and take the first available seat. At the instructor’s discretion, you may sign the attendance sheet at the end of the class period. The period ends when the instructor dismisses the class. Preparations to leave (such as closing notebooks, rustling papers, and putting on your coat) before you are dismissed are disruptive; please avoid them. Do not exit before you are dismissed unless you have already advised the instructor that you must leave early (please do this before the period begins). During the class period you are encouraged to ask questions and participate in discussion. In general, please raise your hand and make sure that the instructor acknowledges you before you speak. Do not read outside materials (newspapers, textbooks or materials for other courses, etc.) or use electronic devices for reading during class. Turn off you phone during class. By off, I mean off and not just put on vibrate or no ring. Do not check or monitor messages. No texting or any other type of communication function is allowed during class. If a phone rings during class the instructor reserves the right to answer the call or to call a “pop quiz” on the class. You may use your laptop for taking notes. However, you must disable wireless capabilities, turn down any sound effects, and use only a word processing (no other programs permitted, no internet, no using headphones, etc.). If you abuse the privilege of using your laptop in class that privilege will be revoked. Eating, drinking, and sleeping are also not allowed in this class. Finally, the lectures, handouts, and other materials of the course are the intellectual property of the instructor. Do not tape lectures or make photos without the permission of the instructor.

ACCOMMODATIONS FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES
Students requesting classroom accommodations must first contact the Dean of Students Office. The Dean of Students will provide documentation to the student who must then provide this documentation to the Instructor when requesting accommodation.

MUH 3530: TOPICAL OUTLINE/COURSE CALENDAR
(Subject to Change)

Topics to be covered in this semester’s class with reading and listening/viewing assignments are listed below (to be completed prior to class meeting). I will be altering this calendar through the semester. Most of the readings come from either the required Course Packet (Target Copy) or from readings posted on the ARES course reserves. JSTOR is another way to electronically access some of the readings that are taken from journals. You should become familiar with the UF Music Library home Page (http://www.uflib.ufl.edu/music/) to access many of the resources available to you. Additional readings may be placed on hardcopy reserve in the UF Music Library. Listening materials will be largely available via E-Learning site for this class. Occasional listening and viewing materials may also be available in the Music Library. You will also be asked to view material on YouTube and/or other web accessible sites. (This calendar is subject to changes, modifications, and other improvements)
