1. Senate Steering Committee voted to postpone the decision on the new Gordon Rule proposal until Fall 2007.
2. The International description will read “International courses provide instruction in the values, attitudes and norms that constitute the culture of a country outside the United States. These courses lead you to understand how geographic location, development level and cultural influences affect these cultures. Through implicit analysis and evaluation of your own cultural norms and values in relation to those held by the citizens of other countries, you will develop cross cultural understanding.”
