Be sure to include the specific designation(s) name (i.e.; Biological Sciences B) above the verbatim statement in the text box

Response:
Humanities (H)

Humanities courses provide instruction in the history, key themes, principles, terminology, and theory or methodologies used within a humanities discipline or the humanities in general. Students will learn to identify and to analyze the key elements, biases and influences that shape thought. These courses emphasize clear and effective analysis and approach issues and problems from multiple perspectives.

Diversity (D) – this designation is always in conjunction with another program area

In Diversity courses, students examine the historical processes and contemporary experiences characterizing social and cultural differences within the United States. Students engage with diversity as a dynamic concept related to human differences and their intersections, such as (but not limited to) race, gender identity, class, ethnicity, religion, age, sexual orientation, and (dis)abilities. Students critically analyze and evaluate how social inequities are constructed and affect the opportunities and constraints across the US population. Students analyze and reflect on the ways in which cultures and beliefs mediate their own and other people's understandings of themselves and an increasingly diverse U.S. society.

Accomplishing Objectives

Please provide an explanation of how the General Education Objectives will be accomplished in the course. A numbered list is the recommended format (see example GE syllabus). Inclusion of this explanation is a required component of GE courses and syllabi.

Response:
(H) Humanities objectives will be accomplished through:
1. Examination of literary texts and live and filmed performances;
2. Assessment of the historical and cultural contexts shaping the forms and themes of artistic works;
3. Discussion in small and large groups of how artists employ the mediums of literature, theatre, and film as part of a process of self-examination;
4. Analysis of the varying effects of specific methodologies, principles and themes of artistic expression in literature, theatre, and film;
5. Evaluation of the personal biases and values that shape one's interpretation of artistic expression.

(D) Diversity objectives will be accomplished through:
1. Examination of social and cultural difference in the United States through analysis of literary texts and live and filmed performances;
2. Assessment of autobiographical expressions of difference in artistic works as related to race,

- gender, class, ethnicity, age, sexual orientation, and dis(ability);
3. Critique of social constructs defining and affecting cultural and social difference in the U.S.;
 4. Discussion in small and large group settings of how individual artists express an understanding of themselves in a culturally diverse society.
 5. Examination of one's own perceptions about difference through creative, reflective, and analytical writing, as well as small and large group discussion.

Student Learning Outcomes

Please visit the Student Learning Outcomes section of the General Education webpage, find the Subject Area Student Learning Outcomes (SLOs) which are associated with the requested General Education designation(s), then copy and paste them into the space below with the appropriate headings: Content, Critical Thinking, and Communication. Inclusion of the verbatim statements for each of the three SLOs is a required component of GE courses and syllabi.

Response:

(H) Humanities Student Learning Outcomes

Content: Identify, describe, and explain the history, underlying theory and methodologies used.

Critical Thinking: Identify and analyze key elements, biases and influences that shape thought within the subject area. Approach issues and problems within the discipline from multiple perspectives.

Communication: Communicate knowledge, thoughts and reasoning clearly and effectively.

(D) Diversity Student Learning Outcomes:

Content: Identify, describe, and explain the historical processes and contemporary experiences characterizing diversity as a dynamic concept related to human differences and their intersections, such as (but not limited to) race, gender identity, class, ethnicity, religion, age, sexual orientation, and disability.

Critical Thinking: Analyze and evaluate how social inequities are constructed and affect the opportunities and constraints of different groups in the United States. Analyze and reflect on the ways in which cultures and beliefs mediate understandings of an increasingly diverse U.S. society.

Communication: The diversity designation is always in conjunction with another category. Communication outcomes are listed in those subject areas.

Content: Explanation of Assessment

Please provide an explanation of how the General Education Content SLO will be assessed in this course. This is a required component of a General Education syllabus.

Response:

(H) Humanities

Content: Identify, describe, and explain the history, underlying theory and methodologies used.

At the end of the course, students will be able to:

1. Identify, describe and explain the social and historical contexts, themes and methodologies used in an examination of self and the human condition, with attention to how they characterize diversity as a dynamic concept related to human difference.

(D) Diversity

Content: Identify, describe, and explain the historical processes and contemporary experiences characterizing diversity as a dynamic concept related to human differences and their intersections, such as (but not limited to) race, gender identity, class, ethnicity, religion, age, sexual orientation, and disability.

At the end of the course, students will be able to:

1. Identify, describe and explain the social and historical contexts, themes and methodologies used in an examination of self and the human condition, with attention to how they characterize diversity as a dynamic concept related to human difference.

Critical Thinking: Explanation of Assessment

Please provide an explanation of how the General Education Critical Thinking SLO will be assessed in this course. This is a required component of a General Education syllabus.

Response:

(H) Humanities

Critical Thinking: Identify and analyze key elements, biases and influences that shape thought within the subject area. Approach issues and problems within the discipline from multiple perspectives.

At the end of this course, students will be able to:

1. Analyze and evaluate autobiographical literary texts and performances by a diverse group of artists and writers that depict how social inequities and constraints of different groups are constructed and mediated in the United States.
2. Identify, describe and explain the methodologies of literature, film and theatre as they affect the use of autobiography in American performance and literature from mid-twentieth century to the present.
3. Analyze and evaluate the effectiveness of performance and literary techniques for conveying meaning and purpose to human experience.

(D) Diversity

Critical Thinking: Analyze and evaluate how social inequities are constructed and affect the opportunities and constraints of different groups in the United States. Analyze and reflect on the ways in which cultures and beliefs mediate understandings of an increasingly diverse U.S. society.

At the end of this course, students will be able to:

1. Analyze and evaluate autobiographical literary texts and performances by a diverse group of artists and writers that depict how social inequities and constraints of different groups are constructed and mediated in the United States.

Communication: Explanation of Assessment

Please provide an explanation of how the General Education Communication SLO will be assessed in this course. This is a required component of a General Education syllabus.

Response:

(H) Humanities

Communication: Communicate knowledge, thoughts and reasoning clearly and effectively.

At the end of this course, students will be able to:

1. Formulate and present clear and organized responses to course material in both written and oral formats relevant to the humanities disciplines employed in the course.

(D) Diversity

Communication: The diversity designation is always in conjunction with another category. Communication outcomes are listed in those subject areas.

At the end of this course, students will be able to:

1. Formulate and present clear and organized responses to course material in both written and oral formats relevant to the humanities disciplines employed in the course.

Course Material: General Education Discussion

Please provide a concise explanation of how the General Education designation(s) content is incorporated into the course throughout the semester. Please keep in mind that while this may be abundantly clear to you, the submitter, the General Education Committee will need to be able to readily see the appropriateness of the requested General Education designations.

Response:

(H) Humanities

Much of the assigned content of this course relates directly to the overall Humanities Quest Program Goal of developing within students a “greater sense of who they are in the world and how to respond effectively to essential and pressing questions they will face in their lives.” The course addresses the Quest 1 theme of “The Examined Life” through an analysis of autobiographical literature, theatre and film. Artistic expression in these media personalize the values, incidents and relationships that shape human experience and give live meaning.

The course relates to the Humanities content objectives of exploring complex and open-ended life questions through a multidisciplinary lens: literature, theatre and film. Class activities include: literary and performance analysis involving close examination of primary source texts and films; historic and cultural contextualization; small and large group discussion of thematic elements associated with self-examination; attendance at a live theatrical performance; analytical, creative and reflective writing; and individual appointments with the instructor and teaching assistant.

The course aims to encourage students to form a personal and emotional connection with the material. Furthermore, the course arranges autobiographical works by experiential themes or life events that individuals will encounter on some level in their lives. It is hoped that the sort of rigorous self-examination that led to the artists’ creation and sharing of the art works will encourage students to gain a sense of familiarity and comfort in similar processes of introspection throughout their lives.

(D) Diversity

The majority of assigned texts and classroom activities enable students to examine human difference as a dynamic concept within U.S. society. Assigned works include autobiographical artistic expression related to such areas as race, gender, class, ethnicity, age, sexual orientation, and (dis)ability.

Class activities include: close examination of autobiographical texts and films that directly confront social and cultural difference; discussion of the cultural construction and perpetuation of social inequities, especially as related to personal identity; small and large group discussion of how cultural groups and individuals navigate inequities and construct identity and meaning; analytical, creative and reflective writing on the topic of diversity; and individual appointments with the instructor and teaching assistant to discuss a final project.

Incorporation of General Education Subject Areas

Please provide a concise explanation of how General Education subject area objectives will be incorporated consistently throughout the course during the semester. You are encouraged to keep in mind the General Education subject area objective descriptions AND Student Learning Outcomes for those subject area objectives when compiling this information.

It is recommended this explanation be based off of any one/combination/all of the following as a frame work (formatting is up to submitter):

- Course Schedule of Topics (strongly recommended)

- Lectures
- Assignments/Tests/Essays
- Class Discussions
- Group Work
- Miscellaneous

Response:

The course is divided into the following schedule of topics (see also the course syllabus)

1. Introductions to the course theme and humanities disciplines employed
2. Autobiographical themes:
 - a. Rites of passage
 - b. Family
 - c. Social inequity and diversity
 - d. Violence and trauma
 - e. Illness and (dis)ability
 - f. The Personal and political
 - g. Humor & self-deprecation
3. Some Responses to an Examined Life

Specific assignments and activities and their relationship to Humanities and Diversity SLOs include:

- Class participation (Humanities Content and Diversity Content SLOs);
- Quizzes (Humanities Content and Critical Thinking SLOs);
- Short Essay #1 (Humanities Content; Diversity Content; Humanities Critical Thinking; Diversity Critical Thinking; Humanities Communication);
- Short Essay #2 (Humanities Content, Humanities Critical Thinking, Humanities Communication);
- Reflection Paper (Humanities Communication)
- Final Project (Humanities Content, Diversity Content, Humanities Critical Thinking, Diversity Critical Thinking, Humanities Communication);
- Experiential Learning Experience (live theatre performance) (Humanities Critical Thinking, Humanities Communication)

COURSE SUMMARY

The course explores the ways in which modern and contemporary American artists and writers have utilized self-examination as the basis for artistic creation. Often merging the factual with the theatrical or dramatic, autobiographical performance and literature personalizes the values, incidents and relationships that shape human experience and give life meaning.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Why do we tell stories, and why do we enjoy having them imparted to us? It is perhaps one of the most basic human desires to examine experiences, provide form to them, and relate them to others. It may be posited that the digital era has provided individuals with greater access to storytelling and narrative—in all its variant forms and delivery mediums—than ever before. This era has also seen the increased positioning of Self as the subject of dramatic narratives, ranging from the loosely autobiographical to the openly confessional.

This course explores the ways in which American artists and writers have utilized self-examination as the basis for artistic creation. The course examines the use of autobiography in Theatre, Film and Literature from the mid-twentieth century to the present. This course will explore such questions as:

- What social or cultural factors provide the context for the autobiographical exploration?
- What risks and rewards does an artist or writer take in placing herself as subject of a public work?
- While a Socratic form of self-examination is a life-long process, what situations or life events may lead to an intensified period of introspection?

- Is there a difference in experiencing an intensely autobiographical work as part of a live, collective audience as opposed to a solitary reading?
- Does autobiographical work encourage self-examination on the part of the viewer/reader?
- What narrative techniques have artists and writers used to relate personal experience, and what are their effects?

These questions and others will be examined through an analysis of specific literary and performance works, short critical essays, class and small group discussion, formal analytical writing, less formal reflective writing, and an out-of-classroom experiential encounter with live theatre performance.

QUEST 1 AND GENERAL EDUCATION OBJECTIVES AND STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

Quest 1 Description: Quest 1 courses are multidisciplinary explorations of truly challenging questions about the human condition that are not easy to answer, but also not easy to ignore: What makes life worth living? What makes a society a fair one? How do we manage conflicts? Who are we in relation to other people or to the natural world? To grapple with the kinds of open-ended and complex intellectual challenges they will face as critical, creative, and self-reflective adults navigating a complex and interconnected world, Quest 1 students use the humanities approaches present in the course to mine texts for evidence, create arguments, and articulate ideas.

Quest 1 SLOs:

- Identify, describe, and explain the history, theories, and methodologies used to examine essential questions about the human condition within and across the arts and humanities disciplines incorporated into the course (Content).
- Analyze and evaluate essential questions about the human condition using established practices appropriate for the arts and humanities disciplines incorporated into the course (Critical Thinking).
- Connect course content with critical reflection on their intellectual, personal, and professional development at UF and beyond (Connection).
- Develop and present clear and effective responses to essential questions in oral and written forms as appropriate to the relevant humanities disciplines incorporated into the course (Communication).

Humanities Description: Humanities courses provide instruction in the history, key themes, principles, terminology, and theory or methodologies used within a humanities discipline or the humanities in general. Students will learn to identify and to analyze the key elements, biases and influences that shape thought. These courses emphasize clear and effective analysis and approach issues and problems from multiple perspectives.

Humanities SLOs:

- Identify, describe, and explain the history, underlying theory and methodologies used in the course (Content).

- Identify and analyze key elements, biases and influences that shape thought within the subject area. Approach issues and problems within the discipline from multiple perspectives (Critical Thinking).
- Communicate knowledge, thoughts and reasoning clearly and effectively (Communication).

Diversity Description: In Diversity courses, students examine the historical processes and contemporary experiences characterizing social and cultural differences within the United States. Students engage with diversity as a dynamic concept related to human differences and their intersections, such as (but not limited to) race, gender identity, class, ethnicity, religion, age, sexual orientation, and (dis)abilities. Students critically analyze and evaluate how social inequities are constructed and affect the opportunities and constraints across the US population. Students analyze and reflect on the ways in which cultures and beliefs mediate their own and other people's understandings of themselves and an increasingly diverse U.S. society.

Diversity SLOs:

- Identify, describe, and explain the historical processes and contemporary experiences characterizing diversity as a dynamic concept related to human differences and their intersections, such as (but not limited to) race, gender identity, class, ethnicity, religion, age, sexual orientation, and disability (Content).
- Analyze and evaluate how social inequities are constructed and affect the opportunities and constraints of different groups in the United States. Analyze and reflect on the ways in which cultures and beliefs mediate understandings of an increasingly diverse U.S. society (Critical Thinking).
- The diversity designation is always in conjunction with another category. Communication outcomes are listed in those subject areas (Communication).

Writing Description: The Writing Requirement (WR) ensures students both maintain their fluency in writing and use writing as a tool to facilitate learning. The writing course grade assigned by the instructor has two components: the writing component and a course grade. To receive writing credit a student must satisfactorily complete all the assigned written work and receive a minimum grade of C (2.0) for the course. It is possible to not meet the writing requirement and still earn a minimum grade of C in a class, so students should review their degree audit after receiving their grade to verify receipt of credit for the writing component.

Writing Evaluation:

- This course carries 2000 words that count towards the UF Writing Requirement. You must turn in all written work counting towards the 2000 words in order to receive credit for those words.
- The instructor will evaluate and provide feedback on the student's written work with respect to content, organization and coherence, argument and support (when appropriate), style, clarity, grammar, punctuation, and other mechanics, using a published writing rubric (see syllabus pages 11-12).
- More specific rubrics and guidelines for individual assignments may be provided during the semester.

COURSE OBJECTIVES AND STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

This Quest 1 course enables students to:

1. Identify, describe and explain the social and historical contexts, themes and methodologies used in an examination of self and the human condition, with attention to how they characterize diversity as a dynamic concept related to human difference. (Content SLOs for Gen Ed Humanities & Diversity & Quest 1)
2. Analyze and evaluate autobiographical literary texts and performances by a diverse group of artists and writers that depict how social inequities and constraints of different groups are constructed and mediated in the United States. (Critical Thinking SLOs for Gen Ed Humanities & Diversity)
3. Identify, describe and explain the methodologies of literature, film and theatre as they affect the use of autobiography in American performance and literature from mid-twentieth century to the present. (Critical Thinking SLOs for Gen Ed Humanities & Quest 1)
4. Analyze and evaluate the effectiveness of performance and literary techniques for conveying meaning and purpose to human experience. (Critical Thinking SLOs for Gen Ed Humanities & Quest 1)
5. Relate the use of autobiographical literature or performance to one's student experience at UF and after. (Connect SLO for Quest 1)
6. Create a short literary or stage narrative based on an examination of personal experience. (Critical Thinking SLO for Quest 1)
7. Formulate and present clear and organized responses to course material in both written and oral formats relevant to the humanities disciplines employed in the course. (Communication SLOs for Gen Ed Humanities & Quest 1)

To see how assigned work addresses each SLO, refer to pages 8-10.

TEXTS AND MATERIALS

Required books for the class are available at the UF Bookstore. Shorter assigned readings are available through the class Canvas website. Students are required to bring a copy of the day's assigned reading to class every day; failure to do so may result in loss of participation points.

Required:

Books (any paperback edition is fine):

1. Sandra Cisneros, The House on Mango Street
2. Lisa Kron, Well
3. Tim O'Brien, The Things They Carried
4. Tennessee Williams, The Glass Menagerie

Films (available through streaming services or university library reserve):

1. Jason DaSilva, When I Walk
2. Spalding Gray, Swimming to Cambodia (filmed solo stage performance)
3. Sarah Polley, Stories We Tell

Attendance at live theatrical performance, TBD. If an admission fee is required, you must purchase your own student-priced ticket for this performance (instructions will be given in class). A small fund may be available to cover tickets for students with genuine financial hardship; if purchasing a ticket will be a hardship for you, you must discuss and make arrangements with the instructor by the end of the second week of the semester.

Text and film options for the final project may be reviewed at Library West or purchased through any retailer.

ASSIGNMENT DESCRIPTIONS

Participation (SLO's: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7—see page 4):

The following actions contribute positively to your participation grade:

- Attendance and promptness
- Demonstrated completion of assigned readings and activities
- Comments and questions that convey reflection on course content
- Demonstrated engagement with large and small group discussions
- Respect for the opinions held by others

Quizzes, 3 (SLO's: 1, 3):

- Convey a clear understanding of concepts, analytical techniques, themes, subjects and characters in assigned readings and class discussions. The format is largely objective in nature.

Short Essay #1 (500 words, counts toward UF Writing Requirement of 2000 words; SLO's: 1, 2, 3, 4, 7):

- Summarize and explain one specific approach to developing autobiographical point of view in a dramatic or literary narrative. Identify how point of view is developed in one specific work discussed in class, including a focus on difference as presented through the relationship between the principal subject and one secondary character.

Short Essay #2 (500 words, counts toward UF Writing Requirement of 2000 words; SLO's: 1, 3, 4, 7):

- Describe and discuss one theme in an autobiographical performance or work of literature encountered in class. Identify specific techniques in which the narrative is developed, such as an inciting incident (or “trigger event”), plot complication, moral or ethical choices, repetition, reversal, crisis/climax, and resolution. Does the structure of the work appear to promote an emotional release (catharsis) on the part of the viewer/reader?

In-class creative writing exercise (250-500 words; does not count toward UF Writing Requirement of 2000 words; SLO's: 5, 6):

- Write a short monologue or narrative passage that has some basis in personal experience. You will be provided with an image or phrase to incorporate in to your narrative as seamlessly and truthfully as possible. Develop a clear point of view toward your subject matter.

Reflection paper (400 words; does not count toward UF Writing Requirement of 2000 words; SLO's: 5, 7):

- Articulate how the themes of this course may be relevant to your personal and intellectual development at UF and after. Identify works of performance or literature that you found especially impactful and explain why. In what ways might autobiographical writing or performance invite self-examination on the part of the reader/viewer. While this reflective paper is informal in nature, it should be clearly organized and written, reflecting a clear understanding of course themes and techniques of analysis.

Final Project (2 parts):

- Submission of final paper topic (200 words; does not count toward UF Writing Requirement of 2000 words; SLO's: 1, 3, 4, 7)
 - Provide a brief summary of an American autobiographical writing or film not encountered for class that you wish to examine in your final paper. Include a short overview of the author or originating artist, as well as the subject of the work. Identify specific analytical techniques and class works you will draw upon for your analysis.
- Final paper (1000 words; counts toward UF Writing Requirement of 2000 words; SLO's: 1, 2, 3, 4, 7):
 - Analyze an American autobiographical writing or film of your choosing. Identify the cultural context in which the work is set, as well as the context in which the work was presented (e.g. a contemporary work that sets the narrative in another place or moment in time). Discuss the themes of the work, especially as they may relate to the artist's or writer's process of self-examination, including any factors contributing to an awareness of difference. Identify specific techniques used to develop point of view and narrative and evaluate their effectiveness. Provide a brief but clear comparison with at least one work encountered for class.

Experiential Learning component (SLO's: 2, 3, 4, 7):

- All Quest 1 classes include an experiential learning component in which students engage with a UF or community resource. Because theatre performance is a live event, it is important that students in the course have an opportunity to attend a live performance, so they can experience the effects of the performance theories they have encountered. A live performance may be selected either on campus in the Constans Theatre or Phillips Center, or locally at the Hippodrome Theatre. Free student performances offered by the student government-sponsored Florida Players offer yet another option. Performance Art, which often has an autobiographical genesis or feature, is offered at times through the School of Art + Art History or one of the campus museums. The specific activity will be selected once the performance schedules of these organizations have been set.

SUBMISSION OF WRITTEN ASSIGNMENTS

All written assignments will be submitted as MS Word (.doc) or Rich Text Format (.rtf) documents to the course site on Canvas. All papers should be formatted in 12-point Times New Roman font, double-spaced with 1-inch margins and pages numbered. You must include a word-count at the top of the first page. Include your name, course number, date submitted, and a title for each essay.

All written assignments are due at the beginning of the class period on the date listed on the course schedule. Submission of late assignments without penalty requires a valid and documented reason, such as an excused absence. Otherwise, 1/3 of a letter grade for the assignment will be deducted for each school day that assignment is late (holidays and weekends excepted).

GENERAL EDUCATION WRITING ASSESSMENT RUBRIC

	SATISFACTORY (Y)	UNSATISFACTORY (N)
CONTENT	Papers exhibit at least some evidence of ideas that respond to the topic with complexity, critically evaluating and synthesizing sources, and provide at least an adequate discussion with basic understanding of sources.	Papers either include a central idea(s) that is unclear or off-topic or provide only minimal or inadequate discussion of ideas. Papers may also lack sufficient or appropriate sources.
ORGANIZATION AND COHERENCE	Documents and paragraphs exhibit at least some identifiable structure for topics, including a clear thesis statement but may require readers to work to follow progression of ideas.	Documents and paragraphs lack clearly identifiable organization, may lack any coherent sense of logic in associating and organizing ideas, and may also lack transitions and coherence to guide the reader.
ARGUMENT AND SUPPORT	Documents use persuasive and confident presentation of ideas, strongly supported with evidence. At the weak end of the Satisfactory range, documents may provide only generalized discussion of ideas or may provide adequate discussion but rely on weak support for arguments.	Documents make only weak generalizations, providing little or no support, as in summaries or narratives that fail to provide critical analysis.

STYLE	Documents use a writing style with word choice appropriate to the context, genre, and discipline. Sentences should display complexity and logical sentence structure. At a minimum, documents will display a less precise use of vocabulary and an uneven use of sentence structure or a writing style that occasionally veers away from word choice or tone appropriate to the context, genre, and discipline.	Documents rely on word usage that is inappropriate for the context, genre, or discipline. Sentences may be overly long or short with awkward construction. Documents may also use words incorrectly.
MECHANICS	Papers will feature correct or error-free presentation of ideas. At the weak end of the Satisfactory range, papers may contain some spelling, punctuation, or grammatical errors that remain unobtrusive so they do not muddy the paper's argument or points.	Papers contain so many mechanical or grammatical errors that they impede the reader's understanding or severely undermine the writer's credibility.

1) The student must earn a grade of C or better in the course, AND (2) The student must earn an S (satisfactory) evaluation on the writing requirements of the course.

WRITING RESOURCES

- The UF Writing Studio is committed to helping University of Florida students meet their academic and professional goals by becoming better writers. The Writing Studio is staffed by consultants with extensive writing backgrounds. Most have graduate degrees, and many teach in the University Writing Program or English Department. Visit the Writing Studio online at <https://writing.ufl.edu/writing-studio/> or in 2215 Turlington Hall, (352) 846-1138, for one-on-one consultations and workshops.

COURSE POLICIES AND STUDENT RESOURCES

Attendance Policy:

Class attendance and prompt arrival are expected. Three unexcused absences are permissible. Each unexcused absence beyond the third will result in a 20-point reduction in the final grade (e.g. 910 total points will become 890). Only those absences deemed excused according to UF policy will be exempted from this policy. The UF policy on excused absences reads, in part:

- “In general, acceptable reasons for absence from or failure to participate in class include illness, serious family emergencies, special curricular requirements (e.g., judging trips, field trips, professional conferences), military obligation, severe weather conditions, religious holidays, and participation in official university activities such as music performances, athletic competition or debate. Absences from class for court-imposed legal obligations (e.g., jury duty or subpoena) must be excused. Other reasons also may be approved.”*

Appropriate documentation is required for excused absences. Absences related to university-sponsored events must be discussed with the instructor prior to the date that will be missed. The full UF policy on absences, including religious holidays, illness policy, and the 12-day rule, may be found at:

<https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/attendance-policies/>

If absent, it is your responsibility to obtain information about missed course content. If an assignment is missed due to an excused absence, the assignment will be due by the next class period following the excused absence.

Tardiness: Attendance will be recorded at the beginning of each class period. Arrivals after the attendance roll are disruptive and will be considered tardy. Three instances of tardiness count as one absence.

Academic Honesty and the Student Honor Code:

The Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code received extensive revisions in 2018. The Honor Code contains the following statement:

- “The Honor Pledge: We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honesty and integrity by abiding by the Student Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by Students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: “On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.”

The Honor Code identifies a number of potential violations, including plagiarism. Section 3.E. prohibits and defines plagiarism as follows:

- “Plagiarism. A Student must not represent as the Student’s own work all or any portion of the work of another. Plagiarism includes but is not limited to:
 - 1. Stealing, misquoting, insufficiently paraphrasing, or patch-writing.
 - 2. Self-plagiarism, which is the reuse of the Student’s own submitted work, or the simultaneous submission of the Student’s own work, without the full and clear acknowledgment and permission of the Faculty to whom it is submitted.
 - 3. Submitting materials from any source without proper attribution.
 - 4. Submitting a document, assignment, or material that, in whole or in part, is identical or substantially identical to a document or assignment the Student did not author.”

Plagiarism on any assignment will automatically result in the referral of the student to the Dean of Students for consideration of academic and student status sanctions.

Course Evaluation:

Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing online evaluations at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu>. Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results/>.

Students Requiring Accommodations:

Students with disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565, www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter which must be presented to the instructor when requesting accommodation. Students with disabilities should follow this procedure as early as possible in the semester.

Materials and Supplies Fees:

There are no additional fees for this course.

Class Demeanor:

Students are expected to arrive to class on time and behave in a manner that is respectful to the instructor, teaching assistant and fellow students. Please avoid the use of cell phones and restrict eating to outside of the classroom.

Some of the texts, performances and films we will examine may contain explicit language, as well as controversial topics and opinions. It is expected that students demonstrate respect for ideas that may differ from their own. Disruptive conduct is a violation of the Student Conduct Code: <https://sccr.dso.ufl.edu/policies/student-honor-code-student-conduct-code/>.
